PURPOSE

The credit recommendations are provided by the Commission on Education and Credentials of the American Council on Education (ACE). This information is published in the Guide to the Evaluation of Experiences in the Armed Services, or the Handbook to the Guide.

Credit appearing on this transcript is categorized on the basis of the semester system of postsecondary education. Credit identified as lower level (LL) is equivalent to courses taken during the first two years of college that are typically numbered 100-200. Credit identified as upper level (UL) is equivalent to courses taken during the third and fourth years of college that are typically numbered 300-400. Credit identified as graduate level (GL), is equivalent to courses taken from postgraduate universities that are typically numbered 500-700.

Credit for on-the-job training which meets the standards of USCG Performance Qualifications and is demonstrated through satisfactory performance in written examinations resulting in selection for promotion to the rating or assignment of the designation listed.

(4) Non-Traditional College Credit: Credit earned through college level testing programs of the Educational Testing Service, American College Testing, or Excelsior College (formerly Regents College). Listings that reflect a date and score are derived from a database provided by the testing organizations.

There are a few courses, which students must repeat on a regular basis to retain licensure, nautical designations, and certifications. These include navigation rules and emergency medical technician courses. Because subsequent curriculum for these courses may have been evaluated by ACE, more than one exhibit may appear on this transcript. Also, students who return to the technical school as an instructor may receive credit for the original course taken, as well as the new curriculum being taught.

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, as amended, prohibits the release of this record or disclosure of its contents to a third party without written consent of the student.
